“I am honoured to support Cancer Research UK’s breast cancer campaign. As someone whose family has personally been affected by the disease, I can’t stress enough how important it is that women get to know and understand what is normal for their body. I hope that this Cancer Research UK campaign will raise awareness of breast cancer among women of all ages and encourage them to report any unusual changes and go for screening if they’re over 50. Together we will beat cancer. ”
