Coping with oesophageal cancer

It can be very difficult coping with a diagnosis of cancer, both practically and emotionally. You are likely to be feeling very upset and confused. As well as coping with the fear and anxiety that a diagnosis of cancer brings, you have to work out how to manage practically. The coping with cancer section on our website contains lots of information you may find helpful. There are sections about:

- Your feelings
- Talking to people: who and what to tell
- Talking to children
- How you can help yourself
- Who else can help you
- Sick pay and benefits: coping financially

Diet after oesophageal cancer

Having cancer of the food pipe (oesophagus) will affect your eating and drinking habits, whatever your stage or treatment. Many people with oesophageal cancer find it hard to eat well because they have difficulty swallowing. However it is important to eat well to ensure you are getting enough calories and protein to control weight loss and maintain strength.

A dietician can help you to cope with any problems with eating or drinking. They can advise you about ways of maintaining weight by boosting calories in food and getting high calorie and high protein drinks or powders.

Other help

With everyday difficulties such as dietary problems, it often helps to get advice from people who are in the same situation as you. Try contacting a support group or one of the oesophageal cancer organisations.

It can help to keep a food diary if you are having problems that you think are related to your diet. Take a small notebook and draw a line down the centre of each page. Write down what you eat and when on the left of the page. Write down any symptoms you get and when on the other side of the page. After a few days, you may be able to spot which foods cause which symptoms.

What to ask your doctor about living with oesophageal cancer

- How will my treatment affect me?
- Will I ever get back to normal, or will I have some long term effects?
- If I have difficulty eating, who can I go to for help?

- Will I need a special diet?
- Is there anything I shouldn't eat?
- Will I need any extra vitamins or other diet supplements?
- How do I see a dietician?
- Will I be able to go back to work?
- Where can I get help with claiming benefits and grants?
- What practical help is available?
- Why did this happen to me?
- Are my children at risk of getting cancer of the oesophagus?
- Where can I get help dealing with my feelings?
- Can you refer me for counselling?
- Do I have to pay for counselling?
- Could you refer me to a Macmillan nurse?
