

ADOC clinic – Acute Diagnostic Oncology Clinic

You have been seen at the Acute Diagnostic Oncology Clinic.
This is run by:

(Consultant Oncologist) and
(Acute Oncology Specialist Nurse).

Your GP referred you to this specialist clinic to allow us to look into your symptoms quickly. This does not mean that you definitely have cancer, but further tests are needed to exclude the possibility.

If your symptoms get worse before your next appointment, please call the clinic staff or your GP for advice. If you become very unwell, please go to your nearest Accident & Emergency Department.

See over the page for the tests that have been booked for you.

You can call to speak to us:

Out of office hours:

ADOC clinic – Acute Diagnostic Oncology Clinic

You have been seen at the Acute Diagnostic Oncology Clinic.
This is run by:

(Consultant Oncologist) and
(Acute Oncology Specialist Nurse).

Your GP referred you to this specialist clinic to allow us to look into your symptoms quickly. This does not mean that you definitely have cancer, but further tests are needed to exclude the possibility.

If your symptoms get worse before your next appointment, please call the clinic staff or your GP for advice. If you become very unwell, please go to your nearest Accident & Emergency Department.

See over the page for the tests that have been booked for you.

You can call to speak to us:

Out of office hours:

ADOC clinic – Acute Diagnostic Oncology Clinic

You have been seen at the Acute Diagnostic Oncology Clinic.
This is run by:

(Consultant Oncologist) and
(Acute Oncology Specialist Nurse).

Your GP referred you to this specialist clinic to allow us to look into your symptoms quickly. This does not mean that you definitely have cancer, but further tests are needed to exclude the possibility.

If your symptoms get worse before your next appointment, please call the clinic staff or your GP for advice. If you become very unwell, please go to your nearest Accident & Emergency Department.

See over the page for the tests that have been booked for you.

You can call to speak to us:

Out of office hours:

ADOC clinic – Acute Diagnostic Oncology Clinic

You have been seen at the Acute Diagnostic Oncology Clinic.
This is run by:

(Consultant Oncologist) and
(Acute Oncology Specialist Nurse).

Your GP referred you to this specialist clinic to allow us to look into your symptoms quickly. This does not mean that you definitely have cancer, but further tests are needed to exclude the possibility.

If your symptoms get worse before your next appointment, please call the clinic staff or your GP for advice. If you become very unwell, please go to your nearest Accident & Emergency Department.

See over the page for the tests that have been booked for you.

You can call to speak to us:

Out of office hours: